THE WINDY CORNER

By Fred S. Watson

Another community in Coffee county, in time named Victoria, was first settled in the early thirties, and the village itself was named after the young man who never very large, but it was the center of a relatively thickly settled farm district. This community for some years bore the name "Smut Eye." The story persists that the men of the settlement would gather outside J. C. Brown Store and in cold weather would build a fire. Mr. or Mrs. Brown or both apparently had rules against drinking in their house. After spending several hours around the open fire talking and drinking, the men's faces would be cooled with smut. Someone remarked that the men of the community always had smut around their eyes. The name stuck and the community is sometimes referred to as Smut Eye.

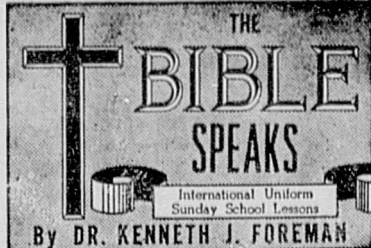

Victoria never developed into town, but remained through the years, simply a rural community. Many of the population before the Civil War had disappeared or their names have changed.

Public education in Coffee County, as in other frontiers, was first settled in the early thirties. There were 666 people in the county in 1850 who were illiterate. This was 32 per cent of the people 20 years old or older. There were no public funds for the support of schools, consequently education was irregular and of poor quality. The people in a community, who were interested in educating their children, would build a school and hire a teacher. These schools were supported by charging a small fee to clients and by private donations. There was no central agency for hiring teachers, and no particular qualifications were required as a prerequisite to teaching. Teachers of the kind were scarce and the board of local schools would hire itinerant teachers with no information as to the qualifications, except the teachers' word that he could handle the job. The schools were very crude, usually being a typical one-room log building without any glass windows.

There were 17 schools in the county in 1850, and all of them were one-teacher schools. The published census for 1850 gives the number of pupils enrolled in these schools as 290, but the number of children attending school as returned by the families was 712. The schools probably reported an average attendance, while the families reported a child attending school even if he went for only a few days. In 1850 the total income for the entire 17 schools was $3,480 per year. This money all came from private sources and amounted to only $205 per school. The shortage of money caused the teachers salaries to be very low and the school term very short.

The state educational system was organized in the 1850's and provided for a county superintendent of education. J. C. Moore was the first person to hold that office in Coffee County. He was elected in the general election of 1855. The superintendent received no salary and acted only in an advisory capacity to the local school boards.

Until 1860 there was not a school in the county above the elementary level, but in 1860 the legislature granted a charter to the Clintonville Male and Female Academy. The trustees of

Religion: Hand-Sewn
Lesson for August 22, 1948

THE NEIGHBORS didn't know what Tabitha's idea was. She never went down in history as a great thinker. What church she attended, whether she ever took part in a prayer-meeting, what her spiritual life was like, she never told.

She was a good woman, they knew. When she came that way, they did not tell him about Tabitha's prayers or her peace of conscience. No doubt she had these. But what the neighbors brought in to show how good their friend had been, was "cents and garments." All made by hand, her hands; made for her poorer neighbors, widows.

In these days widows were not protected by life insurance, social security or annuity plans. They could not go out and earn big money in factories. To be a widow, as a rule, meant to be in need of help. Too many of them starved. So Tabitha spent her time making clothes for the widows of her city.

Full of Good Works
THE BIBLE says she was "full of good works." It does not say she was full of faith or full of love. Just full of good works. We can be pretty sure the faith and love, the religion, was there, but it was the good works that people noticed.

Religion in Tabitha's house was translated into the language of coats and skirts. Religion always has to be translated into something we can understand. Religion is a word, of course; words tell of them. We cannot get along without them. They stand for something. But where the Christian religion is concerned, we cannot stop with words.

Would They Want You Back?
THEIR MUST have been a number of Jewish Christians in Joppa, but the only one who seems to have been with a miracle to bring back to life the dead. Tabitha, or Dorcas. Her life was over, yet it was a life worth living again. If many people would be worth bringing back to life again? How many funerals would we have if we could turn in reverse? Not many, maybe, but if the neighbors voted at each funeral, as they do in Joppa, on the question, "Do we want this person back again?" they would usually vote for people like Tabitha, whose religion was all hand-sewn.

What Is Service?
SERVICE is a word much used in Christian circles. We even have the word around us using the word. Department stores, government agencies, radio manufacturers, filling stations, all offer service. The trouble is that much of this is something for which you have to pay. And much so-called service is simply mending something that was not done right in the first place. Tabitha's service was of a different kind. It was genuine doing for people who couldn't do much for themselves and who certainly could not do anything in return.

Even among Christians, when we think of service we set our sights sometimes too high. We think of Telemachus, who stopped the brutal sport of gladiators murdering one another on Roman holidays. We think of great missionaries or settlement workers or Christian statesmen like Gladstone or Kuyper.

The new school was Alfred McGee, John A. Fleming, William L. Watson, Asa R. Doolin, J. C. Moore, Lewis Hutchinson Jr., and A. B. Brooks. The trustees of the Academy were granted the power to erect buildings, elect a president and do other things which were necessary to the operation of a boarding school. The school house as completed in 1860, was a two-story frame building painted white. The first head of the school was W. A. Edwards, who owned a plantation in Dale county. For the first term, Edwards had four teachers working under him and about 200 students. The Clintonville Academy was described by a contemporary as the best and longest term school in any of the adjoining counties. Edwards was followed as principal by J. J. Johnson, J. M. Sanders, and J. J. Langham.

The religious impulse of the early settlers of Coffee county will be described in next week's issue of the Windy Corner.

per. All honor to such men and women; they inspire us all. Yet they discourage us, too. For these great Christians are "special" people; they had outstanding talents, of their own genius. They had opportunities given only to a few, opportunities that do not come in every one's lifetime.

Religion in the Hands
WE SHOULD REMEMBER this. Tabitha or Dorcas. All she had was her hands and some pieces of cloth. Her only opportunity was a poor city filled with poor people. Her only talent was one most women have: Plain sewing.

Yet the Tabithas, the Dorcas, make the backbone of Christianity. They are the salt of the church, the salt of the earth. In your own town, in your own community, if the Christian religion is loved and respected, it is not because of the famous preachers; it is because of the humble doers, the people whose Christian religion goes to their hands.

In Memoriam

WILTON BOUTWELL

Because we are humans nothing can ever make "death other than death"; yet we know that we should be sustained in this trying hour by that wholesome philosophy of life which we have learned from Wilton, whose death we feel so keenly.

To the family, you should not sit paralyzed in grief for Wilton, but should find in his absence a stimulus of renewed faith and courage to press on toward the "Mark of Higher Calling."

"Wilton sleeps, his breathings are not heard."
In palace chambers far apart
He sleeps, nor dreams, but ever dwells
A perfect form in perfect rest."

Born and reared in the Victorian community, he was an asset, always taking an active part in the Sunday School Training Union and church services. Some two years ago he followed his Savior in baptism.

Funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Kyle of farwell.

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
When I put out to sea,
Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;
For 'tho' from out our bourne
Of Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot
When I have cross'd the bar."

A fitting epitaph for Wilton, for one who came successfully through life handicapped.
